

Endnotes for The Historical Reliability of Luke's Gospel: Parts 5 and 6

Summer/Fall 2022 Bible and Spade

Notes

<sup>1</sup> Quoted in John Hogg, "On the City of Abila, and the District Called Abilene near Mount Lebanon, and on a Latin Inscription at the River Lycus, in the North of Syria," Journal of the Royal Geographical Society of London 20 (1850): 43 (italics original).

<sup>2</sup> William Whiston, trans., Josephus: The Complete Works (Nashville: Thomas Nelson, 1998).

<sup>3</sup> Leen Ritmeyer, "Discovering Jerusalem of the Time of Jesus," Ritmeyer Archaeological Design, February 22, 2012, <https://www.ritmeyer.com/2012/02/22/discovering-the-jerusalem-from-the-time-of-jesus/>.

Bibliography

Bruce, F. F. 1981. The New Testament Documents: Are They Reliable? 6th ed. Grand Rapids: Eerdmans; Downers Grove, IL: InterVarsity.

Caba, Mike. "Bible and Archaeology - Online Museum: Fifty Items in Approximate Chronological Order, Oldest Artifacts First." Accessed August 12, 2022. <http://www.bibleandarchaeology.com>.

Hogg, John. 1850. On the City of Abila, and the District Called Abilene near Mount Lebanon, and on a Latin Inscription at the River Lycus, in the North of Syria. Journal of the Royal Geographical Society of London 20: 38–48.

John Brown University. "Abila Archaeological Project." Accessed August 12, 2022. <https://www.jbu.edu/academics/bible/abila/>.

Ritmeyer, Leen. 2012. "Discovering Jerusalem of the Time of Jesus." Ritmeyer Archaeological Design. February 22. <https://www.ritmeyer.com/2012/02/22/discovering-the-jerusalem-from-the-time-of-jesus/>.

Whiston, William, trans. 1998. Josephus: The Complete Works. Nashville. Thomas Nelson.