Join ABR in Israel for Christmas!

The location of Joshua's Ai (Joshua 7-8) has been a matter of mystery and controversy since the beginning of archaeological research in Israel. This excavation is a critical project in the apologetic task of refuting skeptical arguments that undermine the authority and inerrancy of the Bible.

Weekend touring is available at a nominal cost. A post-dig tour is also being offered, January 2-January 7. $85 per day paid in advance, includes hotel and 2 meals. Park entrance fees and lunch not included.

Excavations at Khirbet el-Maqatir began in 1995. Thus far, the city gate, monastery, 1st Century AD house and wall system have been revealed. In 2016, we will continue to excavate these features as we uncover the structure of this 15th century BC Canaanite fortress and 1st century AD city, which may possibly be the city of Ephraim in John 11:53-54.

As part of its mission to train others in field archaeology, ABR also conducts a Field School as an integral part of the excavation. While excavating, the dig team stays at The Ritz Hotel East Jerusalem, near the Old City, which offers excellent guest accommodations and classroom facilities. Transportation to the site each day is by bus. Weekend tours are offered.

The Dig Session is scheduled for December 18, 2016 - January 2, 2017. Cost: two weeks $1,750, which includes room and board in Israel (no flight).
